Forced Into Exile.

Wm. Upchurch, of Glen Oak, Okla., was an exile from home. Mountain air, he thought, would cure a frightful lung-racking cough that had defied all remedies for two years. After six months he returned, death dogging his steps. "Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery," he writes, "and after taking six bottles I am as well as ever." It saves thousands yearly from desperate lung diseases. Infallible for coughs and colds, it dispels hoarseness and sore throat. Cures grip, bronchitis, hemorrhages, asthma, croup, whooping cough. 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all dealers.

CILLMORE.

Ellis Oldfield and his moving picture outfit held the boards at the Ben Murphy schoolhouse Saturday night. It was well attended and all enjoyed the show.

Last week an inquest was held at Pekin over three bunches of sheep which were torn up by dogs. 'Squire Harlan Murphy estimated the loss and the owners made their claim.

Miss Ethel Cecil, of Consolation, and Miss May Pack, of Mize, were mingling with the belles of this creek Sunday. Come again, girls, for you brought beams of sunshine with you.

A game of baseball was played Saturday between the Clay Murphy schoolhouse boys and the Ben Murphy schoolhouse boys on the latter's ground, resulting in a victory for the Ben Murphy schoolhouse boys by a score of 11 to 2.

The famous cabin on the hill has been vacated again. This time by "Long" Dave Lawson, who last week pulled up stakes and left for Menifee county, much to the joy of Dr. Harry Murphy, who claims that the dust in the road was laid as if by a recent rain, but soon found out it came from tears of joy from the whole community.

An entertainment of a classic order will be held at the Ben Murphy schoolhouse Saturday, November 13. Recitations, dialogues and singing will be the main features. In the afternoon a game of baseball will be played between two select nines. A box supper will be the program at night, the proceeds going for the benefit of the school. Come out and be with us in this good movement.

Nov. 1. BLUE BELL.

Nevada: Battle-Born

By Hon. Frank H. Norcross, Chief Justice Supreme Court of Nevada.

(From the November Scrap Book.)

No one ever pretended that Nevada was admitted for any other reason than as a war measure. Nevada stands alone as the only territory in the union that had statehood thrust upon her.

It meant something to the people of Nevada in 1864 to assume the heavy burdens of statehood. The glory was not then so alluring but that the first proposed constitution was rejected by popular vote. When the real purpose of statehood was better understood, the action of a second constitutional convention was promptly ratified.

So great was then deemed the necessity for haste that the constitution was telegraphed to Washington at an expense to the state for the one dispatch of over $8,400.

Nevada lived up to her motto—"All for our Country." She turned a stream of gold and silver into the coffers of the nation that made it easy to maintain her credit, and, besides, she practically was compelled to assume the defense of her own domain from warring Indian tribes.

The general government still owes the state of Nevada nearly half a million dollars expended in protecting her people from the wards of the government, and in raising and equipping soldiers for the union army. Some day, probably, the nation that has had the real benefit of the hundreds of millions of dollars which the mines of Nevada have produced, will pay this honest debt.

Croup is most prevalent during the dry cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes and it has never disappointed them. Sold by all dealers.

"SWORD OF JUSTICE HANGS OVER THE NIGHT-RIDERS."

In Magazine Article, Executive Defends Kentucky's Record For Law and Order.

DEPLORES LAWLESSNESS.

In the November issue of the Scrap Book is Governor Willson's important paper on "The People and Their Law." Taking up the cudgels for his native state, he says, in part:

"I am entirely safe in saying that there is no issue in Kentucky upon the question of law and order; that the sentiment of the state is strong, earnest, faithful, and unyielding in favor of upholding the law.

"The disorders in Kentucky continued, under the secret operation of the men who had a money interest in continuing their unlawful and criminal powers, for nearly a year, but finally the reign of fear in thousands of homes has come to an end, at least, for the present; and I trust in our people, and believe that there can be no serious renewal of the trouble.

"The night-riders, except for one year each in the penitentiary for two of them, are yet unpunished, but no statute of limitation protects them; and over all of them hangs the sword of justice of the people's law."

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the last 36 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures cough and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Sold by all dealers.

Costly Suit.

The remarkable spectacle was presented this week in the Grant Circuit court of a suit in equity over a disputed boundary line, the amount involved being less than a rod of land, the valuation of which was less than six and three-fourths cents. Both parties to the suit are well-to-do farmers owning hundreds of acres of land and worth thousands of dollars. Another peculiar feature of the case is that both litigants married sisters. The costs of the suit will foot up hundreds of dollars.—Grant Co. News.

District No. —7B. T. Helton; fourth Friday in March, June, September and December.
District No. 8—J. M. Lovelace; first Friday in February, May, August and November.

DATE of our issue precludes the possibility of giving anything like a close estimate of the result in political races. However, we think the entire Democratic ticket in the county is elected, and it appears that J. W. Perry, fusion candidate for the Legislature, has won by a small majority. In the Judicial race, the wish may be father to the thought, but we honestly believe Adams, for circuit judge, and Kash, for commonwealth's attorney, have won by reduced majorities. The sending of troops to three Breathitt county precincts may have acted as a boomerang for the Republican candidates, or it may have been the means of getting out the Republican vote where they were supposed to have been intimidated. Change of voting precinct lines looked like chicanery on the part of the Democratic managers, and if it has resulted in a majority for the Republican aspirants then the authors of the change are responsible. There was much booze and boodle used all over the district, but if voters behaved at all places as they did here neither of the election elements cut any figure. The election here was a very quiet affair and if more than two or three could have been denominated as drunk we failed to hear of the case. Whatever the result we hope it will redound to the interest of the people.

RETROSPECTION.

The best answer we can make to the Breathitt County News of last week in which we were given a castigation is the matter published some years since when the editor of that paper, with two other brothers, deserted the Democratic party. We especially recommend the perusal of an editorial beginning "Judas Iscariot," which covers their political history, and then there are two other articles copied from the Jackson Hustler.

JUDAS ISCARIOT was a jewel of supurb setting and a thing of beauty as compared to the three Hagins brothers of our neighboring county Breathitt; Benedict Arnold was a hero, before whose picture all patriotic Americans should prostrate themselves in pride, and Simon Gerty's name should be held in sacred remembrance by every loyal Kentuckian in the world, wherever his habitation. Personally the three Hagins boys are without guile, so far as we know, but politically they are as the stench of a rotting carcass to olfactory organs of decent people. In another place we publish "A Disappointed Constituency" and "The Bolter," respectively, both of which are from the editorial columns of the Jackson Hustler. Read them both and see if their characters as there pictured are not types of the illustrious predecessors in treachery we have named, and then with us you can wonder if, like the first of our trio, they will not each go forth in shame and "fall down and burst his belly."—Editorial in Hazel Green Herald, October 17, 1901.

The Bolters.

The bolters, or as they term it, the fusionists, of this county, are headed by J. Wise Hagins, D. F. Hagins and A. L. Hagins. These three brothers now hold the respective offices of county judge, circuit court clerk and county superintendent, to which they were elected by Democrats. They have been singularly honored by the Democratic party; perhaps beyond their deserts.

In 1896 the elder brother was elected clerk of the Breathitt county court over George H. Patrick by a small majority, yet Patrick did not quit his party, but has ever since continued a consistent Democrat and will support the present Democratic nominees at the approaching election. Four years later he was re-elected without opposition. In 1893 he was a candidate for the nomination for re-election and was opposed by W. B. Cardwell, whom he defeated. But Cardwell continued a Democrat and will support the Democratic nominees. In 1897 he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for county judge against Hon G. S. Miller, whom he defeated by a narrow margin. Judge Miller is still a Democrat, the present efficient chairman of the Democratic county committee.

In 1892 the younger brother, A. L. Hagins and S. S. Taulbee were candidates for circuit court clerk. Hagins was nominated by a bare majority, but Taulbee continued a Democrat. In 1897 he was renominated and re-elected without opposition. The same primary in which these brothers were nominated for county judge and circuit court clerk, their other brother, D. F. Hagins, the present bolting candidate for county superintendent, and H. B. Noble were opposing candidates for the nomination for that office. The former received upon the face of the returns a majority of four votes, and was decided the nominee and elected without opposition. Mr. Noble, although defeated, continued a Democrat. Thus we had three brothers elected to three of the most lucrative offices in the county at the same time.

This year Judge Hagins, still professing to be a Democrat, was a candidate for re-nomination for county judge, while his brother, D. F. Hagins, playing the same role, was a candidate for re-nomination for county superintendent. They were both defeated, and they and their family bolt. Defeat and disappointment are good enough for any one else, but they are too bad for them.

They and their brother have held office in Breathitt county for thirty years at the hands of the Democratic party. During this time the Democratic party passed through troublesome days. We had the Goebel election law with its innovations upon the principles of the party. We had the contests for state offices, against which many Democrats revolted. But this triumvirate indorsed all these, and would have indorsed as many more, had the party, for their indorsement, been willing to have continued the whole Hagins family in office. This it was not willing to do, for life tenure in office is inconsistent with the doctrines of true Democracy. If these gentlemen will contrast their present conduct with that of those they have heretofore defeated for office, they would conclude in the words of the poet:

"Could thou in vision see
Thyself the man God meant,
Thou never more would be
The man thou art, content."
—Jackson Hustler.

A Disappointed Constituency.

After having been retained in office for fifteen consecutive years by the Democratic party, an honor seldom achieved in a county where qualified and ambitious young men abound, and failing in an effort to reinstate himself in office for another four years, the Hon. J Wise Hagins deserted the party in which he had been nurtured and fed, and went into the Republican camp. His many friends who had followed him and had supported him in all his races were naturally surprised at this course. They had reason to expect and did expect better things from him. For one ought to bear the disappointments of defeat as gracefully as he wears the laurels of victory. But the surprise of his friends reached its limits when it was learned that he had carried his disappointments on the bench. The statutes provide that the county shall be laid off into convenient voting precincts, but no precinct to contain more than 300 voters. Acting under this statute Judge Hagins had divided the county into the necessary voting precincts. No precinct contained the maximum number of voters. Everybody was satisfied with them. No complaints were heard, save now and then a croak from a disgruntled Republican. The first county court succeeding the primary election in which the judge and his brother were defeated in their candidacy for county judge and county superintendent, respectively, and in which the Republicans had no part, he, at the instance of the triumvirate of the Republican party in the county, made an order materially changing the boundaries of four of the election precincts that he, himself, had made, and that too without a petition or complaint from any one effected by the change.

It was thought by many of his friends that this was but the ebullition of his disappointments. That he would not nurse his wrath. That irate passion would give way to sober reason. But the expectations of his friends were disappointed when at the last hour he had notices of the changes posted. In this he has effected no one but his friends. It is immaterial to Democrats at what precinct they vote, for wherever they vote they will vote the Democratic ticket. As we have said before all they need and all they want is an honest ballot, a free vote and a fair count. These changes will not in the least effect the Democratic vote, but they will yet effect the conscience of Judge Hagins who has always been an honorable and upright gentleman. The Republican party has no place for him. After they have played upon his prejudices and used him they will cast him from them as something unchosen. He will yet conclude in the language of Solomon that "it is better to be a living dog than a dead lion." He will yet reflect upon and see the errors of his way. His conscience will yet assert itself, and when it does "it will bite like a serpent and sting like an adder." He will yet conclude that he would rather be a living dog and wear a Democratic collar, than be the carcass of a dead lion buffeted about in the Republican camp.—Jackson Hustler.

AMERICA'S GREATEST WEEKLY.
THE TOLEDO BLADE,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

The Best Known Newspaper in the United States.
CIRCULATION, - - - 200,000
Popular in Every State.

The seventy-fourth year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period of its remarkable career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. Its field is not circumscribed by State boundaries, but involves the length and breadth of the United States, giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in the country.
The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. The one object of its publishers has always been to make it fit for the American home, for the fireside, and of interest to every member of the family. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The Household page is a delight to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice; the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the greating number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrapbook of information; the Farmstead columns are conducted with the purpose of giving the patrons a medium for the exchange of ideas and information on farm topics. No department is neglected, but every feature is taken care of with the idea of making The Blade worth many times the price of subscription—one dollar a year.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

Cure Your Dandruff

Why? Because it is annoying, untidy. And mostly, because it almost invariably leads to baldness. Cure it, and save your hair. Get more, too, at the same time. All easily done with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Stop this formation of dandruff!

Does not change the color of the hair.

Ayer's — Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says

The new Ayer's Hair Vigor will certainly do this work, because, first of all, it destroys the germs which are the original cause of dandruff. Having given this aid, nature completes the cure. The scalp is restored to a perfectly healthy condition.

THE HERALD.

Some industrious man can get a good job repairing fence by applying to this office at once.

Dr. J. H. Stamper, who has been in the west for nearly a year, came home Saturday to be in time to vote the Democratic ticket.

Children Cry
CASTORIA

Mrs. Courtney Barker, of Grassy, has the thanks of the editor and his better seven-eighths for some very splendid eating apples.

Butler Razor, our colored friend of Daysboro, last week presented the editor and his better seven-eighths with some extra nice eating apples.

Wash Hollon, who has been visiting his brothers, J. B. and Doc Hollon, in and nearby Hazel Green, is now on Frozen with his family visiting other relatives.

For Sale—Two of the Pieratt cottages for less than the lumber and lot can be bought.. One acre in each lot; five rooms in each house. Apply at this office.

For Sale—630 fine select oak trees, within 4 miles of Cannel City and one mile of Licking river Call on my partner, L. C. Patrick, Lykins, Ky. B. F. McClure.

Miss Nanny Brewer, of Laurel, who lived with the editor and his better seven-eighths some months last spring, after a protracted visit to her home and relatives on Grassy creek, is again with us for all time.

The town election resulted as follows: G. W. Wheeler, R., police judge; Jos. A. Rose, R., town marshal; Taylor Whaley, R., Q. C. Daniel, D., W. C. Coldiron, D., Henry Cecil, D., W. B. Johnson, D., trustees.

Grant Lacy, who has been visiting here since before the election, left Wednesday for Rose Hill, Va., where he has been clerking for a year past in the store of J. B. McLin & Sons. He is very well pleased with his position and the social surroundings and came home only to vote.

Now that election is over and quiet once more reigns, we hope all our correspondents will come forward with good newsy letters each week and send them in on time. Eliminate all visits of neighbors among each other, but when relatives or friends from a distance are visiting in your neighborhood, state who they are and where from.

Lee Caskey and wife, of Grassy creek, after an absence of about two months, returned home Saturday last, and to say they were delighted with the trip would hardly express the joy they seemed to feel. During the outing they visited relatives and friends in Iowa, Missouri and Oklahoma, the majority being Kentuckians who formerly lived here. Mr. Caskey and wife were not only pleased with the hospitality of the people, but delighted with the country as well, and report that all the ex-Kentuckians are doing well.

The Annual Bazaar.

At a recent meeting of the Laies' Aid Society the ladies voted to hold their annual bazaar, the proceeds to be divided into three parts equally between the Christian and Methodist churches and the Cemetery Association.

A new feature will be added to the affair in that refreshments will be served at "early dinner time." The sale of donations and serving of ice cream will take place in the evening.

We remember with gratitude the cheerfulness with which our friends gave last year, and feel sure the people of Hazel Green and vicinity will make liberal gifts to our committee this year for this worthy cause.

Following are the names of the soliciting committee, and all donations handed them will begratefully received: Mrs. George W. Wheeler, Mrs. M. O. Carter, Mrs. Roscoe Shackelford, Miss Nancy Sample, Mrs. M. V. Roberts and Mrs. F. N. Day. The bazaar will be held on or about December 11, 1909, in J. T. Day's vacant store, corner Main and Broadway.

Has Just Recovered.

I send you this ad, also check for $2. I don't know your rates, but keep in your columns for 3 months. I am just convalescing from a six weeks' illness from fever. I take your paper, or my wife does, and we are anxious to get The Herald, it is like a letter from our many friends in Wolfe and Morgan. So our best wishes for the success of your paper and the prosperity and happiness of your family. Respectfully,

B. F. McClure,

Sympathizes With You.

The papers of the large cities are all right if you want them, but it is your own home paper that advertises your churches, your numerous societies, sympathizes with you in your afflictions and rejoices with you in your prosperity. In short, it is the local paper that mentions the thousand and one things in which you are interested during the year, and do not find in papers of large cities.

Very many complaints are made to us about the condition of the sidewalks in town. In several places the planks are broken in two or one end only fastened and a pedestrian has to be careful lest he or she receive painful injury. The young ladies at the academy are afraid to venture down town lest they get crippled through the condition of the walks. The town trustees should see to it at once and have these walks repaired or the town will be sued for damages sooner or later. Attend to this at once.

Uncle Jim Lacy, of Lacy creek, came down Tuesday to vote the Democratic ticket, which has been a lifetime custom, and called to pay his respects to The Herald staff. He was one among the very first who subscribed for the paper and since its initial issue has been a permanent patron. In speaking of it Tuesday, he said he would always be in line to support it, a fact that we highly appreciate.

Two of our oldest citizens, and both too feeble to walk to the polls, Tuesday, were conveyed in a buggy and cast their ballots for the Democratic nominees. Uncle Jim Little and Jordan Wills are the gentlemen referred to, and if all Democrats were as loyal, the party would never be in jeopardy.

Kills Her Foe of 20 Years.

"The most merciless enemy I had for 20 years," declares Mrs. James Duncan, of Haynesville, Me., "was dyspepsia. I suffered intensely after eating or drinking and could scarcely sleep. After many remedies had failed and several doctors gave me up, I tried Electric Bitters, which cured me completely. Now I can eat anything. I am 70 years old and am overjoyed to get my health and strength back again." For indigestion, loss of appetite, kidney trouble, lame back, female complaints, it's unequaled. Only 50c at all dealers.

Hazel Green Academy began the year 1909-10 with the heaviest enrollment in the history of the school. Prospects are excellent for a pleasant and profitable year's work. The new principal is the Rev. J. Wesley Hatcher. He being unable to assume personal charge at the beginning of the term, Prof. M. O. Carter was chosen acting principal. The citizens of Hazel Green are considering the purchase of a farm to be used by the Christian Women's Board of Missions as a means of furnishing employment to an additional number of students who may wish to enter the school and have not the means to pay tuition.—Southern School Journal.

Odd Fellows' Day at Elmore.

Wednesday, October 27, the people of Johnson fork of Licking river spent a most delightful day. The Odd Fellows of Elmore had a grand rally and dinner. The crowd in attendance numbered between 700 and 800. The first thing in order was a march by the Odd Fellows and 78 members of the order were in line. Then came addresses by several of the members, the principal one being delivered by Calloway Cooper, who spoke upon the Order of Odd Fellows, what it meant to him and what it ought to mean to every member of the order. Then came the great feast of good things, which had been prepared by the wives, daughters and sisters of the Odd Fellows, and to say that it was amply done justice to is expressing it but meagerly. All present enjoyed themselves to their hearts' content and are anxiously awaiting the next opportunity to meet the kind people of Elmore and vicinity.

One Who Was There.

Valuable Piece of Furniture.

When Sherman Wills, of Sesser, learns that the old bed which recently cost thirty cents at a public sale and which he sold two weeks ago to a traveling man for five dollars, is almost worth its weight in gold, he will sit up and take notice. A. Murry, a traveling salesman, from Chicago, two weeks ago, purchased the very odd appearing bed from Willis. The bed was once owned by John A. Logan, while he was a resident of Benton, in 1853, and it was used by Mr. Logan until he went to war. It was made especially for him, and it is of solid walnut. The weight is 400 pounds and it is a massive piece of furniture. The slats are seven inches wide and are placed the long way of the bed. The posts are six inches square and eight feet high. The side rails are ten inches wide and two and one-half inches thick. The bed was made entirely by hand, as machinery for that class of work was not then in use. Mr Murry purchased the bed for $5, but expects to realize not less than $1,500 from his purchase. It is known that Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas have slept on the bed, and this goes to add value to it—Marion (Ill.) Press.

New Educational Bill.

Important changes in the present school laws of Kentucky is to be presented to the legislature at its next session. The new bill was prepared by the Kentucky Educational Commission and while the bill has not been completed a rough draft of it has been made. The bill replaces the present State Board of Education and provides for general supervision of finances and the preparation of examination questions. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction is given much larger powers. As to the county superintendents the bill will provide that they must devote their whole time to their duties and their salaries are to be increased.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collated and Concisely Chronicled.

It is reported that within a radius of 100 miles of Greenup 12,000 barrels of sorghum were raised this year. Greenup county alone is said to have made 4,000 barrels.

Postoffice inspectors are investigating the disappearance in the mail of warehouse receipts for 500 barrels of whiskey belonging to the Old Darling distillery of Carroll county.

The work of rebuilding the monument marking the grave of Daniel Boone was begun in the State cemetery at Frankfort. The panels for the monument were made in Cincinnati.

Craw, the red light district of Frankfort, has had another killing. Albert Harris, a Tennessee negro, was advancing on another negro with an open knife, when he was shot and killed.

Berry Simpson and others, now doing time in the Frankfort penitentiary for the murder of Deputy U. S. Marshal John Mullins, at Stearns, are making an effort to appeal their cases to the supreme court.

Mrs. Florence Maybrick, who is visiting the prisons of the country to prosecute her life work of prison reforms, inspected the Frankfort penitentiary and stated that there was still much room for improvement.

Says the Allen County Times: Tandy Pruitt, of the Halfway country, killed a crow last week which is quite a freak in the crow line. It is a well developed bird and just like all other crows, except in its color, which is a pure white.

At a meeting of the Goebel Monument and Executive committee, held in Frankfort last week, it was decided to hold the formal unveiling and dedicatory services on February 3, 1910, the tenth anniversary of the burial of Governor Goebel.

Eugene Bates, a negro, who two years ago killed Policeman Cannon in Louisville, last week surrendered himself to the county jailer. It is claimed Bates shot Cannon from ambush, but he refuses to talk about the crime and asks for a speedy trial.

John C. Roberts, who was recently convicted at Louisville for counterfeiting and sentenced to six years in the penitentiary, was indicted for the same offense on four counts in the Federal court at Covington. As soon as his term expires he will be taken there for trial.

A party of neighbors searching for George Bosley, a Marion county farmer who had been missing for a week, found his dead body in the woods guarded by a faithful dog. Although the animal was weak from hunger he would not leave the side of his master and kept up a fight with a drove of hogs, but managed to keep them off.

Herbert Meredith, of Greenville, "in order that innocent women may be protected and future generations spared the sins of their fathers," is to urge upon the next legislature of Kentucky the passage of a bill requiring that each male person applying for a license to marry shall submit himself to a physical examination by a competent physician.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

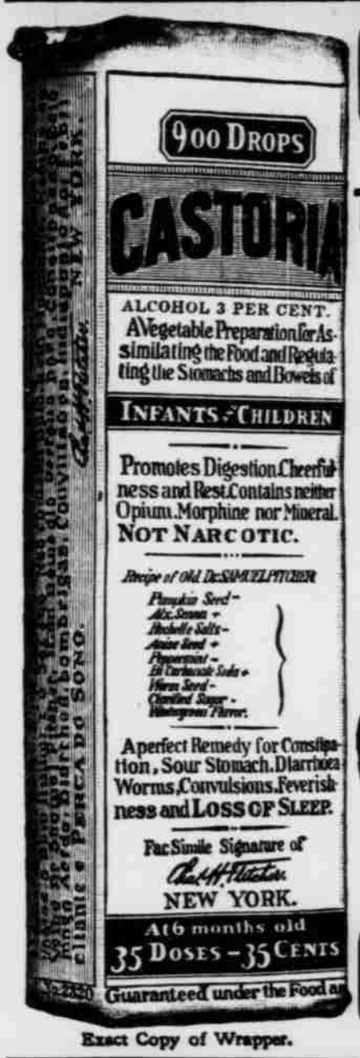

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

Five Years

of Heart Trouble Cured by Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had pains in my left side, and under my shoulder blade, could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath the least exertion would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. When I had taken six bottles I was cured."

MRS. C. C. GORKEY,
Northfield, Va.

If there is fluttering or palpitation it is an indication of a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the heart. It is not necessarily diseased—just weak from over-work. The heart may be weak just the same as the eyes, stomach or other organs. You can make a weak heart strong by taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy. Get a bottle from your druggist, take it according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

Fading Sun Warns Explorer of Coming Long Arctic Winter---Preparing Sled and Boat

[FOURTH ARTICLE]

STORMS now came up with such force and frequency that it was not safe to venture out in kayaks. A few walruses were captured from boats; then sea hunting was confined to the quest of seal through the young ice.

A similar quest was being followed at every village from Annootok to Cape York. But all sea activity would now soon be limited to a few open spaces near prominent headlands.

The scene of the real hunt changed from the sea to the land. We had as yet no caribou meat. The little auks gathered in nets during the summer and eider duck bagged later disappeared fast when used as steady diet. We must procure hare, ptarmigan and reindeer, for we had not yet learned to eat with a relish the fishy, liver-like substance which is characteristic of all marine mammals.

Guns and ammunition were distributed, and when the winds were easy enough to allow one to venture out every man sought the neighboring hills. Francke also took his exercise with a gun on his shoulder.

The combined results gave a long line of ptarmigan, two reindeer and sixteen hares. As snow covered the upper slopes the game was forced down near the sea, where we could still hope to hunt in the feeble light of the early part of the night.

No Anxiety For Winter.

With a larder fairly stocked and good prospects for other tasty meats we were spared the usual anxiety of a winter without winter supplies, and Francke was just the man to use this game to good effect, for he had a way of preparing our primitive provisions that made our dinners seem equal to a Holland House spread.

In the middle of October foxskins were prime, and then new steel traps were distributed and set near the many caches. By this time the Eskimos had all abandoned their sealskin tents and were snugly settled in their winter igloos. The ground was covered with snow, and the sea was nearly frozen over everywhere.

Everybody was busy preparing for the coming cold and night. The temperature was about 20 degrees below zero. Severe storms were becoming less frequent, and the air, though colder, was less humid and less disagreeable. An ice fort was formed, and the winter sledging was begun by short excursions to bait the fox traps and gather the foxes.

All these pursuits, with the work of building and repairing sleds, making dog harness and shaping new winter clothing, kept up a lively interest while the great crust which was to hold down the unruly deep for so many months thickened and closed.

Last Glimpse of the Dying Day.

During the last days of brief sunshine the weather cleared, and at noon on Oct. 24 everybody sought the freedom of the open for a last glimpse of the dying day. There was a charm of color and glitter, but no one seemed quite happy as the sun sank under the southern ice, for it was not to rise again for 118 days.

The Eskimos took this as a signal to enter a trance of sadness, in which the bereavement of each family and the discomforts of the year are enacted in dramatic chants or dances.

But to us the sunset of 1907 was inspiration for the final work in directing the shaping of the outfit with which to begin the conquest of the pole at sunrise of 1908. Most expeditions have had the advantage of the liberal hand of a government or of an ample private fund. We were denied both favors.

But we were not incumbered with a cargo of misfits devised by home dreamers, nor was the project handicapped by the usual army of novices, for white men at best must be regarded as amateurs compared with the expert efficiency of the Eskimo in his own environment. Our food supply contained only the prime factors of primitive nourishment. Special foods and laboratory concoctions did not fill an important space in our larder.

SCENE AT THE NORTH POLE, PHOTOGRAPHED BY DR. COOK.

Nor had we balloons, automobiles, motor sleds or other freak devices. We did, however, have an abundance of the best hickory, suitable metal and all the raw material for the sled and its accessories, which were henceforth to be linked with our destiny.

The sled was evolved as the result of careful study of local environment and of the anticipated ice surface northward. We did not copy the McClintock sled, with its wide runners, which has been used by most explorers for fifty years. Nor did we abandon the old fashioned iron shoes for German silver strips.

What a Polar Sled Should Be.

The conditions which a polar sled must meet are too complex to outline here. In a broad sense it seemed that the best qualities of the best wood Yukon sled could be combined with the local fitness of the Eskimo craft, with tough hickory fiber and sealskin lashings to make elastic joints. With plenty of native ingenuity to foresee and provide for the strain of adaptability and endurance, the possibilities of our sled factory were very good.

For dog harness the Eskimo pattern was adopted, but canine economy is such that when rations are reduced to workable limits the leather strips disappear as food. To overcome this disaster the shoulder straps were made of folds of strong canvas, while the traces were cut from cotton log line.

A boat is an important adjunct to every sledge expedition which hopes to venture far from its base of operation. It is a matter of necessity even when following the new coast line, as is shown by the mishap of Mylius Erickson, for if he had had a boat he would himself have returned to tell the story of the Danish expedition to east Greenland.

Need for a boat comes with the changed conditions of the advancing season. Things must be carried for several months for a chance use in the last stages of the return; but, since food supplies are necessarily limited, delay is fatal. Therefore, when open water prevents progress a boat becomes in the nature of a life preserver.

Foolish indeed is the explorer who ignores this detail of the problem. Transport of a boat, however, offers many serious objections. Nansen introduced the kayak, and most explorers since have adopted the same device. The Eskimo canoe serves the purpose very well, but to carry it for three months without hopeless destruction requires an amount of energy which stamps the polar venture with failure.

Selecting a Boat.

Sectional boats, aluminium boats, skin floats and other devices have been tried, but to all there is the same fatal objection of impossible transportation. It seems rather odd that the ordinary folding canvas boat has not been pressed into this service.

We found it to fit the situation exactly, selecting a twelve foot Eureka shaped boat with wooden frame. The slats, spreaders and floor pieces were utilized as parts of sleds. The canvas cover served as a floor cloth for our sleeping bags. Thus the boat did useful service for a hundred days and was never in evidence as a cumbersome device.

When at last the craft was spread and covered, in it we carried the sled, in it we camped, in it we sought game, the meat of which took the place of exhausted supplies. Without it we, too, would not have returned.

Preparation of the staple food supply is of even greater importance than means of locomotion. To the success of a prolonged arctic enterprise in transit successive experience is bound to dictate a wise choice of equipment, but it does not often educate the stomach.

From the published accounts of arctic travelers it is impossible to select a satisfactory menu for future explorers, and I hasten to add that perhaps our experience will be equally unsatisfactory to subsequent victims.

Nor is it safe to listen to scientific advice, for the stomach is the one organ of the body which stands as the autocrat over every other human sense and passion and will not easily yield to foreign dictates.

The problem differs with every man. It differs with every expedition, and it is radically different with every nation. Thus when De Gerlache forced Norwegian food into French stomachs he learned that there was a nationality in gastronomics.

Depending on Eskimo Food.

In this respect, as in others, I was helped very much by the people who were to line up my forces. The Eskimo is ever hungry, but his taste is normal. Things of doubtful value in nutrition form no part in his dietary. Animal food, meat and fat, is entirely satisfactory as a steady diet without other adjuncts. His food requires neither salt nor sugar, nor is cooking a matter of necessity.

Quantity is important, but quality applies only to the relative proportion of fat. With this key to the gastronomics of our lockers, pemmican was selected as the staple food, which also served equally well for the dogs.

We had an ample supply of pemmican, made by Armour, of pounded dried beef, sprinkled with a few raisins, some currants and a small quantity of sugar. This mixture was cemented together with heated beef tallow and run into tin cans containing six pounds each.

This combination was invented by an American Indian. It has been used before as part of the long list of foodstuffs in arctic products, but with us it was the whole bill of fare when away from game haunts.

Only a few palate surprises were carried, and these will be indicated in the narrative of camp life. The entire winter and night were spent with busy hands, under direction of Eskimo and Caucasian ingenuity, in working out the clothing and camp comforts without which we could not invade the forbidden mystery of the polar basin.

Although we did not follow closely either the routes or methods of our predecessors, we are nevertheless doubly indebted to them, for their experiences, including their failures, were our stepping stones to success.

Woman's Friend

Nearly all women suffer at times from female ailments. Some women suffer more acutely and more constantly than others. But whether you have little pain or whether you suffer intensely, you should take Wine of Cardui and get relief.

Cardui is a safe, natural medicine, for women, prepared scientifically from harmless vegetable ingredients. It acts easily on the female organs and gives strength and tone to the whole system.

TAKE CARDUI

J 38

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Verna Wallace, of Sanger, Tex., tried Cardui. She writes: "Cardui has done more for me than I can describe. Last spring I was taken with female inflammation and consulted a doctor, but to no avail, so I took Cardui, and inside of three days, I was able to do my housework. Since then my trouble has never returned." Try it.
